Cops discover romp in car park

BUILDER HAD SEX WITH TOY GIRAFFE

By ANNE COATES

A PATROLLING cop who spotted a car "rocking" found a man inside bonking a STUFFED GIRAFFE!

Perv Theodore Morgavan, who works as a builder, was nicked for public indecency after romping with the cuddly toy.

The 55-year-old was also found to have drug paraphernalia, marijuana and a small bag of crystal meth.

He's free on bail while police continue investigating.

Tragedy as baby dies in harbour

A BABY boy has died after being pulled from the water at a harbour in the Scottish Highlands.

Emergency services launched a rescue operation after receiving a report of the incident at Ullapool harbour at about 1.20pm on Monday.

The boy was rescued from the water and taken to Raigmore Hospital in Inverness by air ambulance but was pronounced dead a short time later.

The rescue operation involved coastguard teams from Ullapool, Achiltibuie and Inverness as well as a helicopter from Stornoway and the RNLI lifeboat from Lochinver.

Police, harbour authorities and the Scottish Ambulance Service also attended the incident.

A Police Scotland spokesperson said: "The death is not being treated as suspicious."

UK pay growth above inflation

AVERAGE pay growth rose above inflation for the first time in almost two years, in a sign that the squeeze on living costs may be starting to ease.

Wages rose by 7.8% between June and August, according to official figures.

It is higher than average inflation over the same three months, which measures the rate at which prices rise.

The last time that pay growth overtook price increases was in October 2021, which was during the COVID pandemic.

Fears of new Hamas attack... on DONCASTER

TAKE YOUR TWISTED HATRED SOMEWHERE ELSE!

A CONCERNED resident who spotted hobbyist paragliders in the sky worried that it was an attack by terrorist group Hamas... on DONCASTER!

The angry resident saw the craft – similar to those used in the attack on a music festival in Israel which killed hundreds – soaring through the skies above the village of Armthorpe near the South Yorks town at the weekend.

Taking to social media, she wrote: "Whoever thought it was funny to parasail over the village, it was in extremely poor taste."

"Take your twisted hatred somewhere else."

"There were two parachutes with engines like Hamas used at that festival... gave me a fright!"

Another resident pointed out the craft were local paragliding enthusiasts, simply enjoying their hobby, writing: "They have been about for the last few weekends."

"I mean, I'm sure they'll be sorry they gave you a fright, but you can't be serious with this post?"

Replying, the original poster wrote: "Thought it was some kind of scare tactic or protest."

Biden flies to Israel to lend Yank support

US President Joe Biden will travel to Israel today, amid fears about the war with Hamas expanding into a larger conflict.

The American leader (above) is expected to meet with Israeli PM Benjamin Netanyahu and reaffirm America's solidarity with Israel, US Secretary of State, Antony Blinken said.

Announcing the travel plans, Blinken said the President's visit comes at a critical moment, where he will make clear that "Israel has the right and the duty to defend its people from Hamas and other terrorists and prevent future attacks".

The decision comes after nine hours of negotiations between Biden, Netanyahu and other officials.

President Biden will also reiterate the "crystal clear message" to any state or non-state looking to try and "take advantage" of the current situation and attack Israel: "Don't."

The US has warned Iran against escalating the conflict, and Israel says if Hezbollah gets involved, it will give a devastating response.

Missing Brit, 13, murdered

A BRITISH teenager who went missing after the Hamas attack on southern Israel was murdered, her family say.

Yahel, 13, disappeared after militants attacked Kibbutz Be'eri and killed her British-born mother Lianne.

Family members yesterday confirmed to BBC News that Yahel had been killed. Her sister Noiya, 16, and Israeli dad Eli are still missing.

Rishi Sunak said on Monday that "at least" six British citizens have so far died.

The PM told Parliament 10 people were missing, and the Government fears some of the unaccounted for were also killed.

Yahel's family have not yet released the girl's surname.

HERO BELGIAN COPS GUN DOWN FOOTBALL TERROR KILLER

GOT THE BASTARD!

SHOT DEAD: Gun nut Lassoued

TARGET: Swedish footy fans in Brussels to watch their side play Belgium and (below) two victims

ARMED police officers in Brussels have shot dead the terrorist who killed two Swedish nationals on Monday evening.

Abdesalem Lassoued, 45, was shot in a café in the Schaerbeek neighbourhood of the Belgian capital.

Two Swedes were killed and a third person injured in the automatic rifle attack on Monday.

It took place on Boulevard d'Ypres, three miles from the stadium where Belgium were due to play Sweden to qualify for the Euro 2024 football tournament.

Brussels has been on its highest terror alert ever since. The gunman is believed to be a man of Tunisian origin who was in Belgium illegally, after having his asylum application rejected.

He posted a video online saying he had killed people in the name of God, and the prosecutor's office believe he was inspired by the Islamic State Group.

Harrowing

Belgian Interior Minister Annolies Verlinden told Flemish public broadcaster VRT that the automatic weapon found on him was the same as the one used in Monday's attack.

Prime Minister Alexander

De Croo, called Monday's shooting "a harrowing act of terrorism" during a press conference yesterday.

The prosecutor on the case has said the likely motive was the Swedish nationality of the victims.

De Croo said: "Perpetrators, they try to instil fear, distrust and division in our free societies."

"Terrorists must come to understand that they will never succeed in their intent."

RAT PLAGUE AFTER TRAP BAN

WALES will be overrun with giant RATS thanks to a new ban on traps, pest controllers warn.

Rat man Gareth Davies said the ban, which came into force yesterday, would be "catastrophic" for homes and businesses.

He said professionals only used the banned glue traps as a "last resort" but worried amateurs would still use them incorrectly and make his job more difficult. The Welsh government said the decision was made to protect all wildlife and prevent "immense suffering".

Glue traps, or boards, are sticky tiles that are placed on the floor for rats to stick to and eventually die.

The ban, which also includes the use of snares, was part of the Agriculture Bill which went through the Senedd and is a first for the UK.

Gareth has worked in the industry for 34 years and said the rat problem has never been so bad.

"I was in a city centre restaurant and got called in by a customer... I located this rat wedged up inside between an oven and a fryer, and it was huge. It's the biggest rat I've seen."

He said it was more than TWO FEET long and the size of a small cat.

UNDER FIRE:

HOLLYWOOD beauty Denise Richards has been branded "sick" for teasing another OnlyFans collaboration – with her teenage daughter Sami.

The actress, 52, was slammed by fans after recently posting a sultry snap of the pair in tiny tops on her account on the adult subscription site, with the caption: "Should my mini me and I do another collab?"

By SUZIE SHELTON
news@sundaysport.co.uk

The star charges £20 a month for exclusive access to her account while Sami charges a more modest £16.

A screenshot of the post surfaced on Reddit with fans condemning Denise for the "fking weird and incestuous" post.

One fan wrote: "This is fking weird beyond words and the sickest shit I've seen on this app. What does she even mean? What do her and her daughter do on that app?"

Others wrote: "Denise is turning OnlyFans into OnlyFams... it's weird and incestuous... creepy. In no world is this appropriate."

Another fan typed: "This is fking creepy, weird, inappropriate, and so many other things," while one fan added, "This is beyond foul."

OnlyFans is used primarily by babes who produce X-rated content but it also hosts the work of other content creators, like physical fitness experts and musicians.

In June 2022 Sami, now 19, made headlines for posting images alongside Denise, who posed for Playboy mag almost 20 years ago after appearing in the Bond movie The World Is Not Enough.

At the time, Denise, who was married to Sami's father Charlie Sheen from 2002 to 2006, went on social media to defend her daughter's decision and said: "Lots of negative comments on my social this past week. I have to say, I wish I had the confidence my daughter has. And I also can't be judgmental of her choices... I did Playboy."

Denise set up her OnlyFans just days after Sami started her own account last year.

Starmer gets 'glitterbomb' poll bounce

TORIES are braced for double by-election pain this week as polls showed Labour up to 20 points ahead.

Deltapoll research offered more evidence of a 'glitterbomb bounce' for Keir Starmer after his conference last week.

With just two days until contests in Mid Beds and Tamworth, Labour was up four on 47 per cent while the Conservatives were down one on 27.

Tory MPs are increasingly anxious about the prospects of losing both seats, with the Lib Dems splitting the left-wing vote in Mid Beds seen as the their best hope.

Two defeats in the safe seats would be a shattering blow for the PM. The Tories have held Mid Beds since 1931.

There was little sign of a boost for Mr Sunak from the Conservative conference in Manchester at the start of the month.

Balearic boot for Brit louts

BADLY-behaved British tourists face being banned from the Balearics under new proposals.

Holidaymakers who break strict rules brought in to crack down on anti-social visitors could be blacklisted.

A drunken tourism decree was agreed at the start of 2020 for certain areas like Magaluf in Majorca.

A proposal to put anti-social tourists on a plane back home and ban them from returning is being considered.

AS EXPLICIT NEW INTERVIEW WITH THE VAMPIRE SERIES COMES TO BBC...

GORE BLIMEY!

By LEIGH JAMES news@sundaysport.co.uk

TRUE to telly execs' fondness for "doing stuff that's been done before", TV bosses have made a new adaptation of Anne Rice's novel Interview with the Vampire.

A film adaptation starring Tom Cruise and Brad Pitt was a smash back in 1994, and now it's back with a series, shown at 9pm on Thursday on BBC2, and on iPlayer.

Inheriting the Cruise role of French blood-slurper Lestat de Lioncourt, Aussie actor Sam Reid delivers a performance described as being "somewhere between Christopher Lee's Dracula and David Suchet's Poirot" as he becomes besotted with New Orleans brothel keeper Louis de Pointe du Lac (Bristolian actor Jacob Anderson, aka eunuch warrior Grey Worm from Game of Thrones).

In the new version, Louis is the scion of a once-prosperous African-American dynasty fallen on hard times.

It starts with Louis in 2022, now a fighting fit 200-year-old, dictating his story to a sceptical journalist (Eric Bogosian) – though in this case, the confession unfolds in a luxury suite in Dubai rather than a hotel room in San Francisco.

He and Lestat later "adopt" 14-year-old Claudia, whom they turn into a vampire to save her life (Bailey Bass inherits the part from Kirsten Dunst).

It's also gory to boot.

There's quite a lot of bummung between the two vampires but as Lestat is also a fan of the minge, there's plenty of busters to clock in it, too...

DRUGS MAN BONKED TOY GIRAFFE

A MAN was nicked after he was caught bonking a CUDDLY TOY.

A patrolling police officer arrested Theodore Morgavan III (left) after catching him having sex with the stuffed animal in public.

According to the probable cause affidavit, the officer observed a vehicle parked at a commercial storage facility in Midway, Arkansas, and noted that the vehicle was "rocking".

As he approached the car and looked inside, he saw Morgavan having sex with a stuffed animal.

Police have refused to confirm the sort of stuffed animal involved but insiders have since suggested it was a toy giraffe.

Methamphetamine

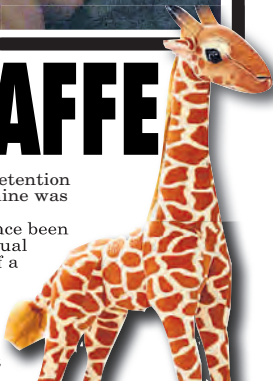

During a search of the vehicle, the deputy found a bag that contained two marijuana pipes and one syringe.

Later, during a booking process at the Baxter County Detention Centre, methamphetamine was also found in the bag.

Morgavan, 55, has since been charged with public sexual indecency, possession of a controlled substance, furnishing prohibited articles and possession of drug paraphernalia.

He is currently free on bail and due in court next month.

Sinitta: sex is great with my new vag

EIGHTIES pop star Sinitta says she is having "better sex than ever" after undergoing an "orgasm injection" – in her MINGE!

Sinitta, 59 (above), has copied celebs like Gwyneth Paltrow and Kourtney Kardashian by opting for the non-surgical route of the O-shot – which involves injecting platelets extracted from blood plasma into the vagina and clitoris.

The energising shot rejuvenates the mimsy, and can also help with issues like painful sex, the inability to orgasm, urinary incontinence and weak vagina walls.

Sinitta, who shot to fame in the mid-80s with her hit So Macho, said: "It can restore your vagina to the condition it was in in your early twenties."

"Suddenly, instead of your sex life declining in your older age, it can actually be better than ever – imagine having the knowledge of your years, but the condition of your youth when it comes to your vagina!"

Rolls-Royce to shed 2,500 jobs

BRITISH engineering giant Rolls-Royce has announced plans to axe up to 2,500 jobs globally – to create a "more efficient and effective" company.

It is the first major move by Tufan Erginbilgic who, on becoming Chief Executive in January, described Rolls-Royce as a "burning platform".

The company, which makes luxury cars and engines for aircraft, is based in Derby and employs 42,000 people around the world with half based in the UK.

It was hit hard by the pandemic when air travel was grounded for months.

Rolls-Royce did not give details of where the job cuts will fall, but reports suggest hundreds of UK staff will be affected.

Mr Erginbilgic said the planned changes would "remove duplication and deliver cost efficiencies", adding: "We are building a Rolls-Royce that is fit for the future."

Brave Israeli OnlyFans babe joins up to battle Hamas

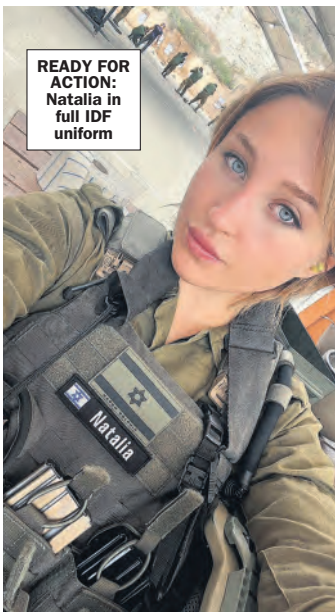

IT'S PHWOAR!

NUDDY STAR: Natalia is more often seen with her bits out

READY FOR ACTION: Natalia in full IDF uniform

ISRAELI OnlyFans scorchers Natalia Fadeev has traded her thong for fatigues and enlisted in the Israeli Defence Force, vowing to "erase" murder cult Hamas from the planet.

Fadeev, who often posts snaps of herself in varying degrees of military garb, has revealed she was triggered to sign up for the IDF in the wake of Hamas's massacre of hundreds of innocent men, women and kids.

She shifted her posts on Insta from cheesecake to horrific images of the slaughter and ensuing war between the Jewish state and Hamas.

So far, hundreds of innocent Israelis and Palestinians alike have been killed in the fighting.

Destroy

"Hamas has nothing to contribute to humanity. We have to erase them... destroy them," Fadeev said, adding that the horrific images "keep me awake at night. Horrible things are happening, we hear stories similar to those of Holocaust survivors."

Now she has uploaded a selfie on Instagram in her full IDF uniform posing with her combat team.

Alongside the image, she wrote: "This is not a war, this is a crime against humanity."

Unfortunately for her fans, she said she won't be posting much in the foreseeable future.

"I won't be very active on social media. I joined my unit for reserve duty, I don't know for how long. Pray for us," she wrote.

In the past, Israel has used photos of attractive members of the IDF to attract recruits.

In 2019, there was a brouhaha over a group called the Alpha Gun Angels.

The Angels billed themselves "as Israel's premier gun-modelling and social media marketing agency".

The women are a team of nine active and veteran IDF combat soldiers who have turned their good looks into Instagram celebrity.

They market their looks and combat experience as a "sexy lifestyle brand".

Proud patriot Natalia is one of the Angels, along with Orin Julie and Nina Nature, among others.

"I know how to hold guns, how to shoot, how to do combat stuff... and Americans appreciate that," Orin explained.

Miss axed over nude pics share with pupil

A TEACHER who sent sexual messages and nude photos of herself to a pupil has been banned from the profession.

Georgie Worboys, 44, was an art teacher at Prince William School, Oundle in Northants, when she began acting inappropriately towards a female pupil there in early 2020.

The Teaching Regulation Agency found Worboys had sent inappropriate messages and images on social media to a pupil which were of a "sexual nature" and "sexually motivated".

Worboys, who had been employed by the school since 2015, contacted one of her pupils on Facebook Messenger in February 2020 and sent more than 2,000 messages over a five-month period and took part in conversations of an inappropriate and sexual nature.

In the messages to the girl, she had sent an image of herself without a top or bra on and asked the pupil to send back a nude selfie.

She also sent the pupil sexual messages, including: "You always contact me when I'm naked", "I thought about running my hand up the inside of your thigh discreetly", and telling the pupil that she was thinking about "being between her legs".

Public w*nk spree is TikTok challenge

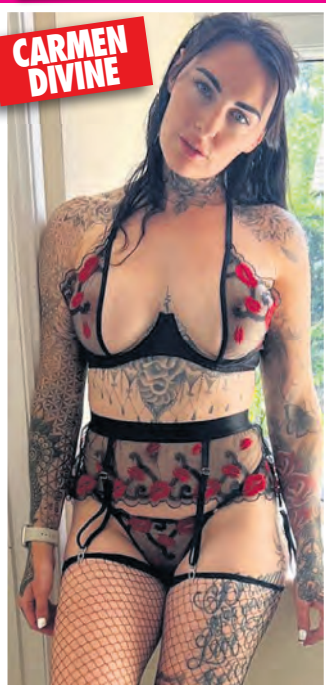

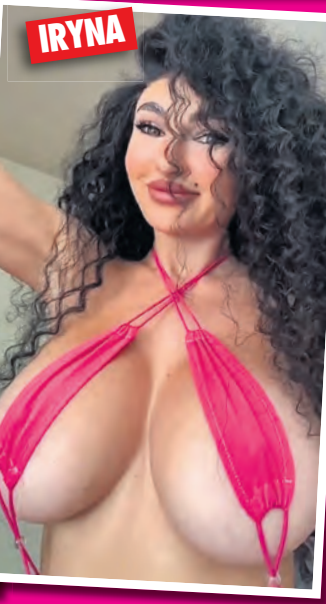

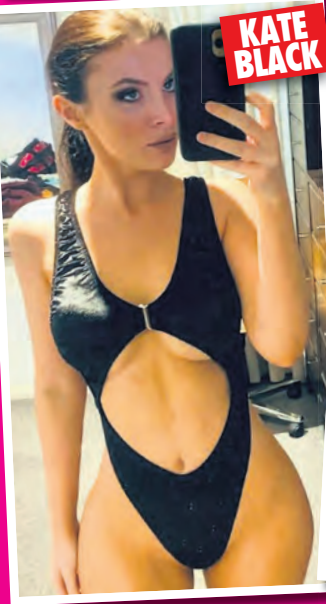

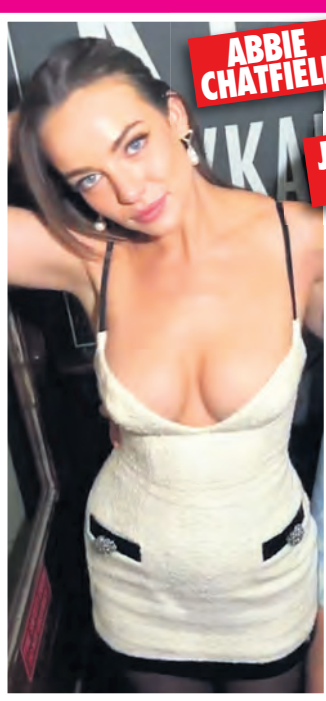

COPS believe a rash of complaints about people furiously masturbating in public could be down to a new TikTok craze.

Several incidents of public masturbation have been reported in the US city of Detroit recently.

Incidents of three individuals engaging in public masturbation took place within the span of a single week. Two of the events happened in close proximity to educational institutions, which further prompted concerns for the safety of students and residents alike.

Dearborn Heights Police said in a statement: "One person was found to be naked in his car and pleasuring himself in the parking lot.

"Any time you get these reports of something very similar like this, yes, there is no coincidence. It sounds like one of those TikTok challenges."

MURDER PAIR 'HAD SEX WITH TEEN STRIPPER'S DEAD BODY'

HELD: Jonathan Warren and Katelyn Goble and (bottom) victim Morgan

A TWISTED pair snatched a teen stripper, strangled her to death, then cut up and burned the body.

By BRAD CHADWICK
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Depraved Jonathan Warren and Katelyn Goble then had SEX with the victim's body.

The arrests of Warren, 33, and Goble, 27, in California and Illinois were announced back in August, more than seven years after Morgan Bauer was last seen alive in February 2016 leaving a nightclub where she danced. Morgan had just arrived in Atlanta, Georgia, after moving to the city from South Dakota.

Now the charges against the pair have been revealed. Both are accused murdering Bauer by placing their hands around her neck.

Strangulation is the underlying offence for the felony murder charge.

Both suspects are accused of causing Bauer's death "with malice aforethought" by "strangulation and other means unknown".

After the murder, Warren and Goble cut up and burned the victim's remains to conceal Bauer's death or to hinder the discovery of whether she was unlawfully killed.

In addition, Warren is accused of necrophilia, though it is suspected that both were involved.

Bauer's mother Sherri Keenan said in a Facebook post: "Warren and Goble are being held without bond."

"I can't express the gratitude knowing they are in protective custody," Sherri added that she and family members "are going through a devastating time" but are hopeful that "everyone is doing all they can to see that Morgan gets justice."

She said: "I want to thank you all for being here and supporting Morgan. You don't know what it means to each of us knowing that you care for her so deeply."

"Thank you for your prayers, loving thoughts and patience. We appreciate you more than you know."

Naked dead lover was pushed out of window

A MAN has been accused of pushing a woman's nude body out of his apartment window after her death.

Even though her death has been ruled a homicide, Anthony Howard, 53, is not charged with killing her, officials said.

Shannon Ashcraft-Saylor was found dead outside Howard's apartment building in Bond Hill, Ohio, according to the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office.

Detectives say Howard disposed of her clothes and possessions and lied about knowing her, but told a pal he had sex with her before her death.

Officials added Howard admitted to having a sexual relationship with Ashcraft-Saylor.

He also said he pushed her body out of a window, causing it to fall 20ft, then allegedly dragged her body to a grassy area, where others found it.

Miss axed over oral sex texts

A CATHOLIC school teacher who texted a student: “I love oral sex,” has been stripped of her licence.

Julie Léger (above) got the boot from teaching after she was found guilty of professional misconduct.

Her teaching certificate has been suspended since May last year.

She was accused of sexual touching, sexting and making inappropriate comments.

According to the college, the allegations involved 12 different students in 2016-17 and 2019-20. The schools and the ages of all the students were not released.

It was alleged that Léger, of Sudbury, Canada, invited one student to sit with her under a blanket during a bus ride following a tournament.

She allegedly rubbed the boy's leg and penis and allowed him to rub her leg, and exchanged sexually-charged texts with the same boy, telling him: “I'm so horny right now!”

A MAN was shot and killed inside a strip club, sending half-naked women streaming out into the street screaming.

Police raced to the venue in Manhattan, New York, and found the 32-year-old victim with a gunshot wound to the head, the NYPD said.

A security guard who works in a nearby building said: “Girls were naked and screaming, saying someone got killed.

“A lot of people ran into a store over the road, getting dressed. They were naked.

“People were saying, ‘He's dead! He's dead! He's dead!’ They were crying and jumping over his body.”

The victim's name was not released, pending notification of his family, police revealed.

Cops did not provide a description of any suspects, and said no-one had been arrested yet.

MILF Amanda Holden pulled out all the stops at the Attitude Awards last week.

The Heart FM presenter, 52, took inspiration from the hit Barbie movie for one of her many outfits at the ceremony, which is for the gays.

Amanda channelled star Margot Robbie's Barbie as she slipped into a pink PVC mini dress that clung to her frame and showed off her cleavage.

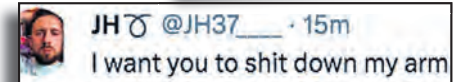

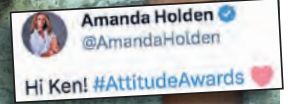

Her long legs were on full display in the daring number as she posed in a pair of strappy pink heels.

Amanda accessorised with matching PVC fingerless gloves and a tiny beret, as well as a pair of heart-shaped costume-style earrings.

The blonde shared a slew of photos on her Instagram with the caption: "Hi Ken."

Little did she know that when she shared a picture on Twitter, Amanda would receive a vile SCAT request.

One Twitter user, identified only as JH, wrote: "I want you to shit down my arm."

Another commented that Amanda's picture was "one for the bank".

By "bank" he means "wank bank" – which suggests he wants to furiously masturbate over the picture of Amanda, until he then ejaculates a ribbon of hot SPUNK.

OAP has dog poo smeared in face

A WOMAN was arrested after she smashed dog poo into her 76-year-old neighbour's face during an argument.

Karl Robertson, 28, was walking her dog through a caravan park where she lives in St Petersburg, Florida, when she and the elderly man rowed.

The man would "always speak with her while she walked her dog," police noted, but this time he said something that made Robertson "upset".

That's when she grabbed a bag of dog shit and shoved it across the man's face, leaving plop "smeared on his face" police records state.

Robertson has since been charged with battery of a person over the age of 65.

ICELAND SHAGGER IS BACK IN COURT

A WOMAN who performed sex acts outside a town centre supermarket in broad daylight has returned to court for a similar offence.

Tia Stokes, of Caulfield Road, Swindon, has been sentenced for outraging public decency.

The 33-year-old pleaded guilty to committing an act of outraging public decency by behaving in an indecent manner, namely sexual activity.

The incident happened on June 3 in Swindon. She also pleaded guilty to stealing wine from an Iceland store on July 15, and stealing food from a Greggs outlet on August 19.

Rehabilitation

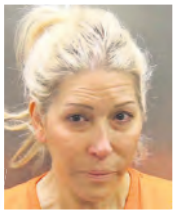

The defendant received a community order requiring her to carry out nine months of drug rehabilitation and up to 20 days of other rehab activities.

She was previously sentenced for a similar outraging public decency offence that happened in Havelock Square, Swindon, outside a branch of Iceland on the afternoon of Thursday, April 20.

For that offence, Stokes received a 12-month community order which included six months of drug rehabilitation and 15 days of rehabilitation activity.

Party mum looked for 'hot teens'

A MOTHER accused of hosting sex parties for her 15-year-old son and his pals made a series of disturbing internet searches, it is claimed.

Shannon O'Connor, who denies luring 14 and 15-year-olds to her £4million home in Los Gatos, California, is said to have Googled: "Good books with young sex", "hot 16-year-old teenage girls", "prettiest 16-year-old girl", and "tits and ass".

The searches were listed in a set of new court documents detailing her alleged crimes with the information gleaned from O'Connor's mobile phone that logged her searches.

The "party mom" faces 39 criminal counts of child endangerment and sexual battery, with some of the victims as young as 13. Investigators claim she pressured teens to binge drink and have sex at parties.

A SEXY Big Brother host, a skintight outfit and a big tube of LUBE...

Sounds like a perfect night in!

AJ Odudu, 35, looked hot as she hosted the opening programme of the new BB series in a blue latex catsuit.

But the beauty secretly battled a very awkward wardrobe malfunction.

Slide

The presenter's edgy outfit was so tight she had to use lube in order to slide into it.

A crowd whistleblower said: "First, a producer said she had to be lubed up to get into the catsuit and then her extra long wig kept getting caught on the legs with static."

"Her stylists had to keep coming on stage with a hairdryer to stop the wig clinging to her. It was pretty hilarious for us, but less so for her."

Here are some more babes in kinky PVC and latex...

#MY SEX FANTASY

'I'm a huge flirt and love lots of male attention'

I THINK my biggest turn-on is getting it on with total strangers.

It's incredibly hot when you meet someone new and rip each other's clothes off for the very first time.

All that lust and sexual chemistry – it always fades in a relationship.

I'm only 23, so I'm not looking for anything serious, and I'm nowhere near ready to settle down yet.

It's all about having fun!

I'm a huge flirt and love male attention, so I'm always picking up blokes anywhere – in bars, on trains, at the supermarket... you name it!

I don't really get why so many people are uptight and mainly pull when they're drunk in a nightclub.

Then they're switched off to getting some hanky panky during the day.

I love the shock factor of giving someone the eye during broad daylight in places you wouldn't normally think of pulling someone.

I've pulled an Uber driver, a delivery man and all sorts of tradesmen who've come round to do jobs at my place... it may sound like a cliché from a porn film but it's still super hot!

You can't beat a fella coming round to check your pipes, ha!

Stiff joints doc is accused of sexual assaults

A TOP doctor has been accused of sexually assaulting at least 82 women by forcing his patients to undergo needless gynaecological and breast exams while being treated for rheumatism.

Dr Derrick Todd (above) is facing three lawsuits from dozens of stiff-jointed women who claim he did unnecessary pelvic, rectal and breast examinations, digitally penetrated them, and asked inappropriate sexual questions for his own sexual gratification.

A class-action suit was filed against the former chief of clinical rheumatology at Brigham and Women's Faulkner Hospital in Boston, Massachusetts, where he worked for 14 years.

Todd resigned in July after two other physicians questioned the appropriateness of pelvic exams for his rheumatology patients.

The medical facility reported Todd to the Massachusetts Board of Registration in Medicine, to whom he denies any wrongdoing.

Bomb scare comes to a nappy ending

AN adult nappy caused a bomb scare that led to a plane being diverted.

Officials ordered a Copa Airlines flight headed from Panama City to Tampa, Florida, to turn back so that a suspected bomb threat could be probed after it spent about an hour in the air.

The Boeing 737-800 returned to Panama City's Tocumen International Airport and was parked at an isolated stretch of tarmac.

The 144 passengers aboard had to get off the plane so anti-explosive teams could search it.

But all they found was an adult nappy wrapped in a black plastic bag in one of the plane's toilets.

"We had it on a secure runway where police special explosives canine units and special forces examined the object, and found it to be an adult diaper, ruling out any risk," cops said.

SICK UNDERTAKER BONKED DEAD MAN'S SEX DOLL

TARGET:
A similar doll to the one Smith
shagged

By BRAD CHADWICK news@sundaysport.co.uk

A FUNERAL worker was arrested after he romped with a life-sized sex doll that belonged to the dead man he had been sent to collect.

Ryan Smith, 41, has since been charged with burglary, criminal trespassing, and tampering with physical evidence, and was fired from his job with a funeral firm in Omaha, Nebraska.

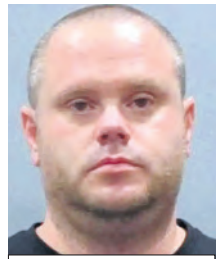

Smith lusted after the doll after spotting it inside the Rock Creek Apartments unit where he and a colleague were sent to collect the body of a man who had died of natural causes.

The pair worked on behalf of Mid America First Call, a company that removes, transports, embalms and cremates bodies.

Later that day, Smith called the property manager and claimed the Sarpy County Sheriff's Office was sending him back to the unit to collect the doll so it could be swabbed for "a biopsy" – a bizarre request that was shot down immediately.

Smith decided to help himself and somehow sneaked his way back into the dead man's apartment.

The apartment block manager, who heard noises coming from the flat, went to investigate and found Smith coming out of the door with his clothing in disarray.

SACKED: Ryan Smith

The manager then called the police.

Investigators arrived and noticed that several items inside the flat had been moved since a death investigation earlier that day.

The Douglas County Crime Lab is processing fingerprints lifted from the moved items and will request DNA samples taken from the doll.

Mid America First Call confirmed that Smith has been sacked, even though the alleged crime did not occur in work time.

OH she does like to be beside the seaside! Living on the south coast, sexy Sydney James likes nothing more than a brisk walk along the prom to blow the cobwebs away.

The 32F stunna said: "I spend a lot of time in the week up in London, either modelling or doing promo work."

"But at weekends, that's when I get to relax a bit and do what I like to do."

"Brighton is obviously very nice in the summer when it is warm but it's such a popular place and attracts a lot of people, so it gets really busy."

"I quite like going for a walk on the beach or on the promenade at this time of year, when it's a bit quieter."

"There's nothing better than a long walk and then a meet-up with friends in a pub."

JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

A daft idea... Labour needs locking up!

NEVER FAILS TO DISAPPOINT:
Anneliese Dodds

LAST week we learned judges had been told by the Home Office to stop jailing rapists and other serious offenders because our prisons are full.

All of our 83,100 prison bunks are already taken – more than a sold-out match at Twickenham – with a shedload more criminals sat on the waiting list for an empty bed.

That our prison cell accommodation waiting times are beginning to now resemble that of the NHS, you'd think our great political brains would be thinking hard on how to fix it.

Could they stop jailing folk for the explicitly non-criminal "offence" – or at least it bloody well shouldn't be – of not paying for a TV licence?

Or the people getting their collars felt for saying hurty words online – which is also ridiculous.

Then there's the beggars, the hawkers, the occasionally troublesome homeless man, someone who dropped a cigarette stub and refused to pay the fine issued to him by a toytown litter warden.

And how about the pot smokers?

Sure, the streets stink a lot more than they used to, but do they really need locking up at our considerable expense or just fined and told to grow up?

Then look at the people we don't lock up...

Bankrupted

Like those who bankrupted our country, blamed everyone else, got bailed out on the grounds they couldn't be allowed to go bust (unlike the nation), and then got even richer off the back of it.

Or like the merry young men who arrive on these shores without the bother of queueing at an airport, navigating passport control and security, or wallets or any form of ID.

Even if there was space, they don't get to visit the prison cells.

Why should they, when there are thousands of free, full-board, 4-star hotel and spa rooms to stay in, indefinitely, instead?

So, thank heavens, then, for Anneliese Dodds, the Labour party's Shadow Women and Equalities Secretary, who never ever fails to disappoint.

To use a word so beloved of the usual suspects, what is her suggestion to deal with our prison population "crisis"?

To put even more people behind bars – for saying hurty words to males born John but now identifying as Jemima.

So if, after a sherbert or two, I happened to refer to my colleague Jemima as the "John" I was first introduced to, many memorable years ago, I should be sent directly to chokey.

No debate, of course.

Because that is the new leftist "debate" – where unless you're on the trans page, the BLM page, the LGBTQWERTY page, the Palestinian page, then you deserve to be in nick and the key thrown away.

For these lunatics, a change in society can only come about not by consent but by threat and force.

You will obey, or you will go to jail. It doesn't matter that you are following millennia of settled science and biology.

One "wrong" word about women not having penises, something perfectly sane and acceptable to 99.9999% of all people, and off to the dungeon you go.

Or are we going to start locking up registry office workers for misgendering newborn babies with willies for not rightly expecting them to later identify as a tortoise, too?

Daughter mowed down mum after stealing her car

A WOMAN beat up her own mother after an argument, then stole her car and ran her over with it.

Amber Scheuren Rusnak, 25 (above), was booked on charges of aggravated battery and carjacking.

A witness called police to report the mayhem in Cocoa, Florida.

Officers arrived to find Scheuren Rusnak's mum injured and tended to her.

Cops then hunted for the daughter, who had fled in her mum's car.

They later found the abandoned vehicle and a dog unit tracked down Scheuren Rusnak, who was trying to hide nearby.

Police have not said what the pair were arguing about, but that they are "very familiar" with Scheuren Rusnak, who has been arrested four times this year and 10 times since 2018, according to the sheriff's office.

Her other collars were for domestic battery, drug possession and prostitution.

Coca police said she may face more charges as their investigation progresses.

Book returned after 90 years!

AN overdue book was returned to a library... nearly 90 years to the day after it was borrowed.

A copy of Joseph Conrad's 1925 book Youth and Two Other Stories was returned to the Larchmont Public Library in Westchester County, New York, just before the 90-year anniversary of its October 1933, due date.

Joanie Morgan of Virginia first contacted the library in July after she found the book among her stepfather's belongings and posted it back, Larchmont librarian Caroline Cunningham said.

It was likely the longest check-out the Larchmont library's had since its opening in 1926, and Ms Cunningham said the man who borrowed the book lived in the village at the time.

Larchmont patrons are hit with a 20-cent charge every day a book is past due, but the maximum fine is $5 (£4.11).

glam favourite Louise Hodges scoops new award

CROWNING GLORY!

By SIMON DEAN

simon@sundaysport.co.uk

WE all knew that Sport legend Louise Hodges was our queen...

And now she's got a crown to prove it!

The stunning glamour model won the Miss Exquisite World Beauty Pageant at The Miss Exquisite World Beauty Pageant, held in Milton Keynes earlier this month.

The glittering award was in recognition of Louise's outstanding social media presence on Twitter, Instagram, and on the saucy snaps site OnlyFans.

Beauty

Louise has won plenty of beauty pageants in her time.

She said: "I thought I would enter for the experience and to compare how different it has become since the 1980s."

The glittering event is in aid of the Alzheimer's Society and is the latest way big-heated Louise helps good causes.

And as part of her prize, she's won a trip in a helicopter.

You can help Louise celebrate by joining her army of OnlyFans followers, who get to see the beauty as we like her best – with nowt on!

DRUNK, 46, DENIES SEX WITH LAD, 14

A WOMAN has admitted to kissing a 14-year-old boy while drunk, but says she "stopped" and did not take off both of their clothes and have sex, a court has heard.

The 46-year-old woman, who cannot be identified, has pleaded not guilty to two counts of aggravated sexual intercourse with a 14-year-old boy between 2020 and 2021.

In her opening address to the jury at New South Wales District Court in Sydney, Australia, prosecutor Emma Blizard alleged the woman performed oral sex on the teenage boy and also had penile-vaginal intercourse with him at an address on Sydney's lower north shore.

The prosecutor said the boy, in a police interview in 2022, described the accused as dancing in a "sexual or erotic" way one night, drinking heavily, and kissing him before the alleged acts.

She said the boy told his mother, who told his father, and the police then became involved. As part of the investigation, the boy spoke to the accused on the phone for about half an hour, "to raise what happened and see what the accused said".

The accused allegedly acknowledged she had had a "serious problem" with alcohol, but said she had not had a drink for eight months.

Virginity

Blizard said the boy also told a female friend he had lost his virginity to the woman. Defence barrister Phillip

Boulton said his client would give evidence during the trial refuting the boy's allegations, including that they had intercourse for an hour and 20 minutes.

"It is a flat out denial," he said.

Boulton added: "She does, though, admit, and will admit to you, that she acted totally inappropriately with him at a time when her life was very vulnerable, and when she was under the influence of alcohol."

"She kissed him, then, in the moment, realised how wrong it was to be doing what she was doing, and stopped. She did not take her clothes off, she did not take his clothes off, she did not engage in oral intercourse, and she did not straddle him and have sexual intercourse with him."

Boulton said he had asked the boy about his remark regarding losing his virginity, and the jury would hear the boy's reply "that he was bragging".

The trial continues.

Dear Sam,

I'M a 35-year-old big-boobed bored housewife and the other week my cat got stuck in a tree.

Poor Tabby had been up there for hours before I called out the fire brigade. Although they got him down, the chief gave me a mouthful, saying they had better things to do.

One of the younger firemen saw I was upset and he came to my house after his shift to apologise.

He then cheekily asked if I wanted to see his hose. I said yes and he whipped out an eight-inch monster, which I then proceeded to suck.

He sat down on a chair in my kitchen while I climbed on his lap and rode him until we came.

Before he left, I told him it was amazing and he said: "It's all part of the service."

Am I special or does he do this to all women?

JE, East Yorkshire

Sam says...

ONLY if they have a pussy.

Dear Sam,

ALTHOUGH I'm 25 and have been going with my fella for a year, I still have these strange longings about having sex with another woman.

When I'm on my own I often take off all my clothes and stretch out on the bed and start to caress my boobs.

Then I slowly move my right hand down my belly and reach between my legs and start to finger my clit and pussy lips.

As I get wetter and wetter down there I think about other women – think about what it would be like to suck on a woman's clit, what it would be like to taste a woman's love juices, what it would be like to have a woman finger-fk me.

After a short while of masturbating while thinking these thoughts, I come with explosive passion.

Do these erotic thoughts mean I'm turning lesbo?

KF, Devon

Sam says...

NOT at all, it means you're very sexy. Try it with a woman, you might like it.

I can't get enough of his monster trouser snake

Dear Sam,

I MUST be the luckiest girl around – my boyfriend's cock is 10 inches when fully erect and is as thick as my wrist.

I know some women would worry about taking such a monster, but I have no problem at all.

It feels like we were made for each other, as I'm just that bit narrower than his dick and it's really tight when he eases it in.

Last week I sucked him off for ages – I teased his purple tip with my tongue and licked up and down his shaft as he moaned with pleasure.

Then he flipped me over and took me doggy-style.

I love it when we do it this way as he slips in his dick, then fingers me until I have a shuddering orgasm.

But with such a big cock, we keep splitting condoms and I'm reluctant to use another method of contraception.

Any suggestions?

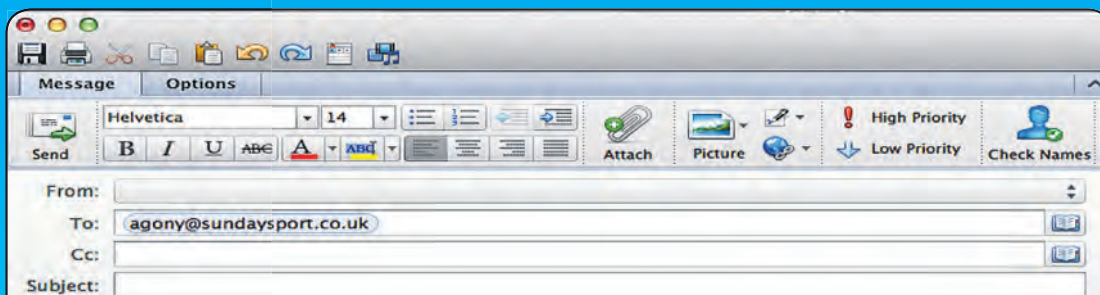

LD, Essex

Sam says...

TELL him it's time to splash out on some 'big boy' johnnies.

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week SAM TYE has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

Wife's steamy sex tape ...with another bloke!

Dear Sam,

I WAS as surprised as anyone when my wife bought me a book called How To Make Your Own Sex Tape for my 30th birthday.

We've always had a lively sex life and I'd say we were both pretty satisfied with each other in bed.

At first she tried to pretend it was a joke gift, but recently I found her in bed reading it.

Dildo

I even caught her fingering her slippery fanny over the book when she thought I was watching football on the telly.

The other day while she was out at work I was looking through all our communal photos and videos that we keep on a shared computer.

There was one recently-added film clip whose little thumbnail image I didn't quite recognise.

So I double-clicked the file and opened it up, to play it – just out of curiosity really.

And the next thing I saw was my wife's pert little breasts in the frame. They were glistening with oil and I was gobsmacked as she rubbed more oil over her body and reached for a dildo that I'd never seen before.

Then she pulled her juicy fanny lips apart and slowly eased in the dildo, bringing herself to orgasm.

By then I was pretty aroused and got my dick out to have wank.

As she put her bum in the air and started using her fingers on herself, I was close to shooting my load.

But then I heard another voice. I turned the speakers on and boosted the sound up and it was a bloke saying: "Yeah baby, that's great."

My cock immediately shrank.

In the next few frames the fella came into the picture and started prodding at my wife's plump pussy with his huge cock.

I turned off the clip and spent the rest of the day going through the others, but that was the only sex tape I could find.

When she got home we had a big row. She tried to tell me how she'd done it for the money – £250 which we needed – and the sex flick was now on sale through a website based in the States.

This made me even angrier, especially as she'd made the sex film with another man!

But she said it was my fault and that if we made the vid together in the first place, we'd be quids in.

I don't know I can ever forgive her. What do you think?

HS, Lincolnshire

Sam says...

TOUGH call. It's always difficult to forgive a partner when they have cheated – but talk it over with her.

Dear Sam,

I'VE been married for three years and for the past six months my wife has been having an affair.

But I don't mind as I love watching her being fked by another guy.

It all started when I came home from work early and got the shock of my life when I saw the wife's legs dangling over the edge of the bed in stockings and stilettos.

Her legs were spread wide and there was a bloke pumping into her.

They couldn't see me and, as I watched, I got a steaming hard-on.

As they swapped positions and she got on top, I started to gently wank myself.

Then the guy turned my wife over and plunged his eight-incher inside her.

My missus was groaning and writhing in ecstasy as this bloke kept pumping away at her.

She cried out "fk me hard" – just like she does when we make love.

She came to an orgasm just as I shot my load.

I slipped out of the house unnoticed, but I did confront her later.

There was no row, as I said I'd enjoyed it, and she said I could watch every week if I wanted.

This has been going on for a while. Am I a pervert?

PT, Suffolk

Sam says...

NOT at all, everybody seems to be enjoying themselves.

Trouble in store over naked blonde BJ babe

Dear Sam,

I WORK as a shop assistant in a small sports store in a busy city centre.

Last week, I had to open up the store and manage on my own as my boss was stuck in traffic.

It wasn't long before a blonde beauty walked in and used the changing room to try on a few sports bikinis.

To my surprise – and delight – she came out in a really sexy outfit and said: "What do you think?"

I said she looked "fking great" while trying to hide my boner, because she truly was amazing.

Then she whipped off her bikini top and swung her huge tits in my face.

She said she was feeling horny and ordered me to close the shop.

I eased down her bikini bottoms and slid a couple of fingers up her sopping snatch.

Banging

She pushed me up against the till and pulled down my trackies to reveal my trembling six-incher.

She knelt on the floor and licked and sucked me until I thought I'd spurt on her lovely golden hair.

When I was fit to burst she pulled her head away, bent over and said: "Right, get it in there."

But then I heard a banging on the front doors of the store. I looked up and it was my boss trying to get in.

The woman got dressed in a flash and scarpared, leaving me alone to face the music.

Now my boss, a bitch of a woman in her 50s, wants me to shag her to save my job.

What should I do?

CJ, Birmingham

Sam says...

DO a runner from that job.

NAUGHTY Natalie Camm loves shopping! The 30F stunna from Kilburn in north London, enjoys a bargain and she says you can't beat a flit around the shops.

She explained: "I know that internet shopping is all the rage but I still love going to shops."

And Natalie says she is not worried going about her business in the lawless hellhole that is London.

She said: "The probability of being shot or stabbed or repeatedly run over by a drug dealer's BMW is still quite low."

And when she's got an armful of bargains, Nat knows just what she'll do.

She said: "I'll go to my local eel pie shop for a slap-up Cockney tea. Cor blimey!"

UPSET: Jack Conan

Sexton's farewell flop guts Conan

JACK Conan says failing to give Johnny Sexton a fairytale farewell at the Rugby World Cup was arguably the most painful aspect of the "toughest" defeat of his career.

Captain Sexton was sent into retirement two games earlier than he had hoped by Saturday's 28-24 quarter-final loss to New Zealand in Paris.

Leinster number eight Conan, who came off the bench against the All Blacks, believes his teammate for club and country is the "greatest Irish player of all time".

"I've lost a lot of big games but this is definitely the toughest one to take," he said.

"It's not lost on us how much sacrifice people made to come and support us. Whether you were here or at home, it has meant the world to all of us and it's something we spoke about a lot.

"We're just gutted that we couldn't do it for them and that we couldn't do it for Johnny, someone who deserves so much for the sacrifices he has made, for the player he is and for the man he is, for the leader that he is.

"He has been everything that has been good about Irish rugby for nearly two decades and to not give him the send-off that he deserves is probably the hardest thing to take.

"He is how we measure ourselves, he is the standards setter, he is the leader, he is an unbelievably good bloke on and off the pitch.

"It might be lost on people at times but he cares more than any player I have ever met in any sport I have seen.

"He cares so much and he sacrifices so much and it doesn't feel right that we couldn't do it for him.

"In my eyes, he is the greatest Irish player of all time for what he has done and it's been an incredible joy of mine to play with him for so many years and to have been in so many dressing rooms with him. It's just not right that we couldn't do better for him."

Sexton's 118th and final match in the green jersey marks the end of an era for Ireland.

Keith Earls is also retiring, while question marks hang over the international futures of other senior members of Andy Farrell's squad.

IT'S SQUEAKY BUM TIME AT THE

ENGLAND CAN BASH THE BOKS

Genge: Everyone hates us but we don't care as semi looms

ELLIS Genge believes England enter their World Cup semi-final against South Africa on Saturday with "everyone wanting us to lose".

England head into the last four as the tournament's only unbeaten team and as standard bearers for northern hemisphere rugby following the exit of more heralded rivals Ireland, France and Scotland.

Facing them is one of the great Springbok sides, who are strong favourites to triumph in the rematch of the 2019 final, but Steve Borthwick's men have grown accustomed to being written off.

Genge insists that, while some players will block out any negativity from outside the camp, he will be part of a group who use it as fuel.

"I think it's probably half and half.

By PAUL THOMAS

I think it's probably case by case," the Bristol prop said.

"I quite like the noise and having our backs up against the wall, with everyone wanting us to lose.

"That probably fuels me a bit. Others are probably better off blocking it out.

"You don't get any style points in this. It's about winning, that's all we're focused on.

"It's boring but that's all that matters. Find a way. Whatever way, I'm happy with it.

"We have achieved nothing yet. We have got a semi-final, but you don't win any medals so we need to knuckle down and do the hard work and what will be will be."

England advanced to the last four with a gripping 30-24 victory over Fiji, the darlings of the World Cup who were being willed on by neutrals at the Stade Velodrome.

Veterans Courtney Lawes and Owen Farrell excelled against the Islanders, yet Genge believes they are the target of animosity – a point underlined when England's captain Farrell drew boos from sections of the crowd as his name was read out on the PA system while the teams were warming up.

Happy

"We have people like Courtney and people with 300 caps across three players, which is mental, and some of the best players of their generation," Genge said.

"Right now they are probably the villains because everyone hates on them. Owen, he gets a lot of grief, but you are happy to have him in the team every single time."

Genge believes Farrell is "big enough to look after himself" in response to the booing, which was in marked contrast to the positive reception that greeted the names of Marcus Smith and George Ford.

Attack coach Rich Wigglesworth sees Farrell's unpopularity in Marseille as the work of a noisy minority.

"I heard an incredible atmosphere inside the stadium, an amazing amount of support. The minority are always the loudest. They are who you hear," Wigglesworth said.

"But the majority of people in the stadium, the majority of the people turning up are loving this team and supporting it. I thought they were incredible inside the stadium."

Meanwhile, former England coach Eddie Jones has committed his future to coaching Australia and again denied speculation linking him with a return to Japan.

Australia crashed out at the group stage for the first time after defeats

RUGBY UNION WORLD CUP

RARING TO GO: Ellis Genge wants to shut up the doubters to Fiji and Wales, but the former England coach insists he has no plans to move.

"I'm staying mate," he told reporters in Australia. "I've always been committed to Australian rugby, I want to leave it in a better place, and that's still the job."

"It's not absolutely my decision. We play in a game where the coach doesn't decide how long they stay."

Review

"We've got a review going forward and we'll see what happens at the end of the review."

Jones, who took over from Dave Rennie after being sacked by England, said he had "no idea" where the story came from about him speaking to Japan.

"I haven't spoken to anyone, mate," he said.

Rugby Australia has announced a review into the World Cup, but Jones believes his decision to select a young team will pay dividends when Australia hosts in 2027.

"I went to the World Cup, came in (with) a short period of time, had to make a decision on the team, made a decision we needed to go with youth," he said.

"And while results at the World Cup weren't the results we wanted, I think I've left the Australian team in a great position to go on to 2027."

"We had the courage to go with a younger squad and I think this squad is going to stand Australia in good stead. We have the nucleus of a really good team."

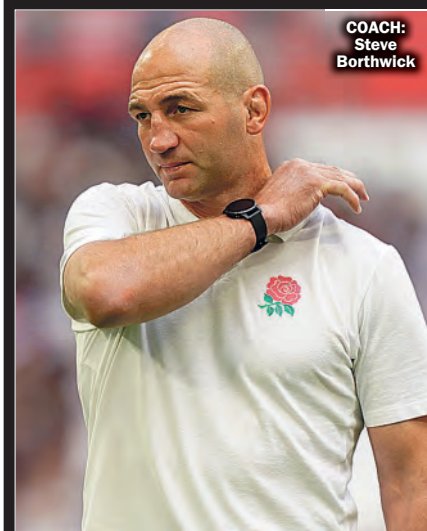

He continued: "We just weren't good enough, mate. You've just got to watch the quarter-finals."

"We're not at that level and we can't pretend to be at that level, but can we be at that level by 2027? Yes we can."

Red Rose have silenced their many critics

ENGLAND face South Africa in the World Cup semi-finals on Saturday. Here, Midweek Sport looks at some of the questions surrounding their bid to relieve the Springboks of their crown.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED?

England being the solitary standard bearers for the northern hemisphere at this stage of the World Cup was a fanciful prospect when they departed for France in late August, yet while France, Ireland, Scotland and Wales have fallen around them, they have advanced into the last four as the tournament's only unbeaten side. It is some turnaround given their tribulations in the build-up.

WHY WAS AUGUST SO BAD?

Maulings by Wales, Ireland and Fiji extended their losing streak to five defeats in six Tests, leading to fears that they would not even emerge from the World Cup's weakest group. Suddenly clashes with Argentina, Japan and Samoa seemed like mountains to climb. The lowest ebb came in their tournament send-off at Twickenham when Fiji prevailed 30-22 in their first ever victory against England. Expectations were at an all-time low.

HOW DID IT TURN IT AROUND?

Through a combination of good fortune and competence. Fiercest pool rivals Argentina were clueless and were routed even though England had Tom Curry sent off after 179 seconds, while Japan were a shadow of the team that lit up the 2019 World Cup. That meant by the time they faced a brilliant Samoa they had already qualified as group winners. England were blessed by being picked in the easier side of the draw – and there was no easier battleground than Pool D – but they also played smart rugby, faced down adversity and overall struck the right note in selection, even showing a flair for innovation by picking Marcus Smith at full-back that is a credit to the management.

WHAT ROLE HAS THEIR CONDITIONING PLAYED?

For all the despair of August, it is possible to caveat those results as details emerged after England's arrival in France that the players had been subjected to unusually high training loads during the Test weeks.

It drained them of energy, most noticeably against Ireland, with a view to ensuring they would peak for the key group match against Argentina – who they duly battered. The objective then was to be ready for the quarter-final, the stage by which their World Cup success would be judged, and on Saturday they edged a tense battle with Fiji that has provided the required pass mark.

CAN THEY WIN IT?

South Africa's epic victory over France in the quarter-finals has seen the reigning champions installed as odds-on favourites to lift the Webb Ellis Trophy via a conclusive win over England, but Steve Borthwick's team have a puncher's chance.

The Springboks are a significant step up in class compared to any opponent they have faced, but England have the muscle to take them on up-front, field some genuine threats in attack – Smith, Ben Earl and Joe Marchant among them – and have developed the priceless knack of finding a way to win. Memories of being overwhelmed in Yokohama in 2019 will drive them on, as will the imminent retirement of a number of long-serving stars, but it remains colossal challenge.

HOPE:
King Of Steel

King can give Frankie Ascot farewell win

ROGER Varian is confident King Of Steel is at the top of his game ahead of his bid to provide Frankie Dettori with what could be a farewell winner in Britain in Saturday's Qipco Champion Stakes at Ascot.

Narrowly denied Derby glory by Auguste Rodin at Epsom, the Wootton Bassett colt enjoyed his day in the sun when dominating the King Edward VII Stakes at Royal Ascot before running well in defeat in both the King George and the Irish Champion Stakes.

With owners Amo Racing no longer retaining Kevin Stott, Dettori has been called up for what is scheduled to be the Italian's final mount in Europe on British Champions Day – and Varian believes his star three-year-old is in prime condition as he looks to give his rider the perfect send-off on UK soil.

"Regardless of whether Frankie is signing off or not, I think he'll suit the horse, and I think the race will suit him too," said the trainer.

"He came and rode him and he was happy with him. It won't be an easy race, but both horse and jockey go there in good form. I wouldn't swap him.

"He's been training great and he looks terrific. They tell you when they are right, and he's telling us right now.

"The Breeders' Cup isn't completely off the table, but the Champion Stakes at Ascot comes first of course and that's where our focus lies."

King Of Steel is one of 11 horses in contention for the Champion Stakes, with Horizon Dore, Mostahdaf and last year's winner Bay Bridge other major players.

Cirrus Des Alges (2011), Almanzor (2016) and Seallway (2021) are among the recent French-trained winners of the Champions Day highlight – and having extended his winning streak to four in the Prix Dollar, Patrice Cottier's Horizon Dore bids to add his name to the roll of honour. Mostahdaf demonstrated his top-level capabilities by winning the Prince of Wales's Stakes at Royal Ascot and the Juddmonte International at York during the summer, but connections will be concerned about the prospect of significant rain later in the week for a horse who prefers fast ground.

John Gosden, who trains Mostahdaf in partnership with his son Thady, warned late last week: "Mostahdaf has won on soft, but we'll have to see what the weather brings through the week. He ran in bottomless ground in the Arc last year and hated it, but if you get him on better ground he's got a great turn of foot."

The Clarehaven team have also confirmed Nashwa, although she also has the option of running in the preceding Queen Elizabeth II Stakes.

Gosden added: "Nashwa ran a huge race when third in the Irish Champion Stakes, where she was flying at the finish. She's in great order, but a decision probably won't be made about which race she runs in until later in the week, probably Wednesday as I don't like leaving it until Thursday morning."

Bay Bridge will step back in distance after finishing sixth in the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe, while William Haggas has left in both last year's third My Prospero and the globetrotting Dubai Honour.

FORM A KYU TO BACK MIMI

MIMIKYU can take advantage of a drop in class by winning the British Stallion Studs EBF Beckford Stakes at Bath on Wednesday.

John and Thady Gosden's filly was last seen finishing a slightly unlucky fifth behind Sea Silk Road in the Group One Prix de Royallieu at ParisLongchamp.

The four-year-old has yet to hit the target this term, but should find Listed-level company far more conducive here and is fancied to secure a confidence-boosting success.

Last season's three victories began with a game defeat of the useful Time Lock at Haydock and ended with Group Two glory in the Park Hill at Doncaster.

Mimikyu kicked off this year with a short-head second to River Of Stars at York and was then placed in the Lancashire Oaks.

By MIKE FRANCIS

The Gosdens gave her a little break following a below-par Goodwood effort and this is now by far her best chance of 2023 to return to winning ways, especially as she is proven at a mile and six furlongs on an easy surface.

Rawaasi can also end a frustrating run in the Vickers Bet EBF Novice Stakes over five furlongs.

The daughter of Blue Point has performed with credit several times over slightly longer, each time being prominent early on before just finding one or two too strong in the latter stages.

Simon and Ed Crisford have opted for a drop down to the minimum trip and the two-year-old filly gets the nod to last home this time.

Mr Alan made a respectable return from 265 days on the sidelines when sixth at Ayr last month, only faltering inside the final furlong, and should strip fitter for the Watch Irish Racing On Racing TV Handicap at Nottingham.

George Boughey's charge took in a trip to the Scottish track prior to winning this same race 12 months ago on soft ground, before running well to finish fifth of 21 in Doncaster's November Handicap on heavy.

Rhubarb kept on well to oblige in tough conditions at this venue recently and remains nicely treated in the Every Race Live On Racing TV Handicap on her old form, despite a 3lb uplift.

Tough

Ezra Cee can confirm the promise of his debut third behind two useful-looking types at Newmarket when reappearing in Kempton's Unibet More Extra Place Races Restricted Novice Stakes.

Peter Chapple-Hyam's two-year-old son of No Nay Never was bang in contention a furlong out that day and is expected to relish a drop down in distance, both on his display at headquarters and breeding-wise.

Over the jumps at Wetherby, Karl Philippe catches the eye on his seasonal debut in the Bobby Renton Handicap Chase. Fergal O'Brien's eight-year-old finished off last term being well beaten on tough assignments at Cheltenham and Aintree but has since had a little bit of help from the handicapper and has form figures of 1121 when first time out.

Rashid: We ain't knocked out yet!

SPINNER CONFIDENT ENGLAND CAN STILL MAKE THE SEMI-FINAL

UP FOR CUP:
Adil Rashid

ADIL Rashid claims England are "not too concerned" about their shock defeat by Afghanistan and still believe they can breathe life back into their ailing World Cup campaign.

The world champions have suffered two heavy losses in their first three matches in India, hammered by New Zealand before suffering a major upset in Delhi on Sunday, where Afghanistan coasted home by 69 runs.

The group stage means all is not yet lost but England's margin for error over the next six games is wafer thin and, with in-form South Africa up next and favourites India still to come, things are unlikely to get easier.

Rashid, one of eight survivors from the 2019 squad who lifted the trophy despite losing three of their nine group games, did his best to present a calm public face.

"It's part of cricket: you win some, you lose some and you can't win every game," he said.

"It's part and parcel of the

CRICKET WORLD CUP

game. We're not too concerned. It's just a game that we've lost. We know we've got tough competition coming up, but I'm confident we can play really well as a unit moving forward.

"Hopefully we can put in some good performances and kickstart the competition. We know we've still got six games, hopefully we can win and get some good momentum going forward."

"I'm quite confident in the squad, in the team. I'm sure we'll bounce back strong and make it through."

Frustration

England fans would be forgiven for hoping stronger words than those are being shared privately, with issues to address in terms of team selection, game management and mindset.

There is no shortage of time to ask tough questions either. England arrived in Mumbai on Monday and do not get a chance to work out their frustrations against South Africa for six days, with the Proteas flying in from the hills of Dharamshala after their clash with the Netherlands.

As such, the squad has been given the next two days off rather than being forced to pay for their struggles with additional net sessions and some families are due to join the tour.

Head coach Matthew Mott, who has yet to speak publicly on the trip, is expected to address the media on Tuesday.

Rashid was in the minority of England players to perform close to standard in the Afghanistan defeat, taking three for 42 with his leg breaks, but he accepted the team's collective efforts were lacking.

The 35-year-old even echoed concerns that the attacking, proactive approach that once marked his side out as trailblazers was not in evidence.

"Hopefully we can just park it behind us and play the way we know how, with the ball, with the bat...that real positive mindset and real aggressive cricket," he said.

"Obviously we fell short with the bat and ball (this time).

"I don't think we were aggressive enough or took the positive options.

"That's cricket, that happens, it's not every time you're going to go out and smash sixes and fours – you've to assess the wicket and the pitch. It's the same with the ball."

"You are going to have games where players are out of form but I do believe we've got the squad, we've got the team and we've got the mentality to still be hungry."

"We want to go as far as we can, but we've got to take it one step at a time, one game at a time, and see where it takes us."

Footsteps

Meanwhile, Josh De Caires, son of former England captain Michael Atherton, is among a host of new faces called up for an England Lions training camp next month.

A total of 21 players will make the three-week trip to the United Arab Emirates to work on red-ball skills, with De Caires one of 10 joining up with the development squad for the first time.

The 21-year-old initially followed in the footsteps of his famous father as a top-order batter but ended the season with Middlesex enjoying unexpected success with his off-spin, claiming seven and eight-wicket hauls in the LV= Insurance County Championship.

De Caires, whose maternal grandfather Frank De Caires played three Tests for the West Indies in 1930, has impressed enough over his 13 first-class appearances to earn his place on the trip alongside a group of rising domestic talent.

Hampshire quick John Turner, who was denied an England T20 debut by injury in the summer, is another highly-rated newcomer. Rishi Patel's improvement at Leicestershire has not gone unnoticed and slow left-arm Callum Parkinson – twin brother of one-time England spinner Matt – is also recognised.

George Balderson, Shoaib Bashir, James Coles, Tom Lawes, Dan Mousley and Ollie Price are the other first-timers.

Four have been capped at Test level – Rehan Ahmed, Matthew Fisher, Josh Tongue and Matthew Potts – while Brydon Carse has 15 white-ball caps to his name.

WALKER A LION FOREVER

England veteran showing no signs of bowing out from international stage

AFTER two retirement U-turns Kyle Walker wants to stay in the England set-up "forever" as he embraces his role as the elder statesman of a united squad.

The 33-year-old is in arguably the form of his life after helping Manchester City win the treble last season.

Despite entering the twilight of his career, Walker remains a mainstay of an England side preparing for another tilt at winning their first trophy since 1996 at next year's Euro finals.

Provided he remains fit, Walker is all but guaranteed a spot in Gareth Southgate's squad next summer after the England manager revealed last month he twice had to convince the right-back to rethink international retirement.

Now he is firmly on the scene for the foreseeable future, Walker insists he does not intend to step away any time soon.

By PAUL THOMAS

"I'm going to keep going forever," he replied with a smile when asked about his plans.

"Nothing changed," the speedy Manchester City defender added.

"When you've been to major tournaments and you've got there and you've nearly got there and maybe I said things that (were based) more on emotion than thinking about it.

"When the time is right, the time will be right, and I will retire. It's going to happen because I'm not getting any younger.

"But I still feel great when I feel that I can offer something to the team on and off the field.

"I think that I've got probably the toughest task in the squad with the calibre of players that are right alongside of me with Trent (Alexander-Arnold), Tripps (Kieran Trippier), Reece James, Ben White, (Aaron) Wan-Bissaka.

"There is a lot in this team that we could all step in and do well, so sometimes the old guard has to get off the throne and give it to the new ones – but I still feel great."

Younger

Part of the reason Walker is keen to extend his 12-year senior England career is to continue the integration of young players into a squad that has changed in its approach since his first camp in 2011.

"As for retirement, it was just a decision that I've been doing this since I was 19," he added.

"It's a lot of summers, it's a lot of time away from the children, it's a lot of time away from home. And I'm not getting any younger.

"But I did speak with the manager and he wanted me to be a part of this team and more importantly I wanted to be a part of it. Because it's a special group of lads. I've been here when it was tough to come to England.

"Obviously to represent your country is always going to be an honour, but those days when you're in the hotels and no-one talks to you, it was hard.

"So to come here and to share the moments that we have done with these players, even though we have fallen short, it's been enjoyable.

"I would hate for any of the younger ones to come up and feel they couldn't speak to any of the experienced ones. I know there's no hierarchy.

"There is an environment, me being the oldest I try to put that on to anyone.

"If I was to see it (a hierarchy), I wouldn't have it, because you want to feel that it's an honour already to play for your country and you want to enjoy it, you don't want to come here and feel like it is a chore."

KEY MAN: Southgate has talked Walker out of England retirement a couple of times those aforementioned youngsters were given a chance to shine in a 1-0 friendly win over Australia.

"I think the performance that they put on, the XI that got put out there had not played that many times," he said.

"I think the manager said it was probably one of the fewest-capped England teams that has been fielded so to show the level of maturity and the level of performance and standards that we did – for me, sat back as the proud dad, I was very proud of them!"

Qualifying

"That's the levels that we have brought into this, whoever comes in or steps into the shoes, they do well and that's what we want to keep breeding."

England boss Gareth Southgate has been pleased with most of the Three Lions' form in qualifying.

And he believes the lessons learned after losing in the last final at Wembley will stand his squad in good stead next summer.

Southgate says they have grown from what happened in the Euros final and their moments since, with all eyes now on the kind of "nights you want to be involved in".

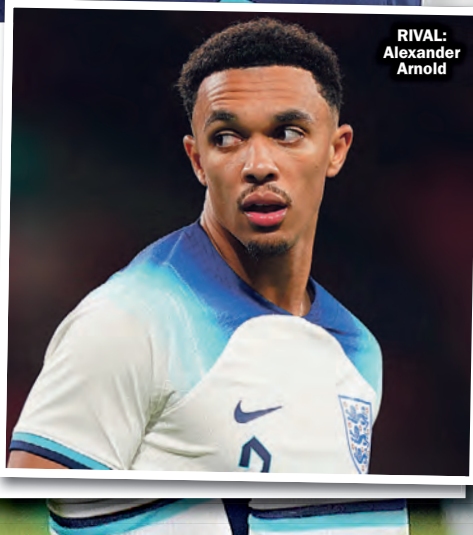

"Experience," the 57-cap former defender said of the difference in his side in the past 12 months or so.

"Experience of winning big matches, consistent performances."

"We've been ranked as one of the top five in the world now since 2018."

"So I don't think there's been any other period over the last 30-40 years where that's been the case for any England side."

"These boys are consistently producing big nights, memorable nights, good performances, exciting performances in general and we want to keep doing that."

CLARKE PROUD TO MAKE EUROS

STEVE Clarke insists Scotland will march into next summer's Euros with their "heads held high" after qualifying from their group at the weekend.

Clarke's men qualified for their second successive Euros when Norway lost 1-0 to Spain in Oslo.

The Scots have 15 points from six fixtures and are behind Group A leaders and fellow qualifiers Spain on goal difference.

Clarke said: "I'm really proud of the players.

"It is fantastic for them to be at a second major finals after such a long barren period.

"The last time we qualified for the Euros it was through the play-off system.

"It felt a little bit like sneaking in the back door.

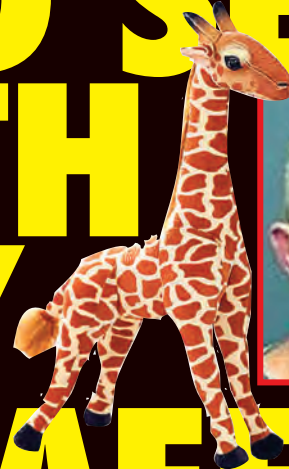

"This time we can walk straight in the front door with our heads held high and look forward to a good tournament next summer. But before that we have to finish the group properly."

Madrid want to sign Jude's little brother

JOBE Bellingham looks set to join his brother Jude at Real Madrid.

The younger sibling of the England ace has been making his mark with the under-19 national side.

The 18-year-old made a major impact for the Young Lions as they took on Montenegro.

Pundits are already comparing him to his older brother who has been a massive hit since moving from Borussia Dortmund to Real last summer.

Reports in Spain suggest they would like to bring Jobe to play alongside his brother.

Los Blancos president Florentino Perez reportedly asked his chief scout Juni Calafat to make sure the younger Bellingham was watched while on England duty. Jobe is currently on loan at Sunderland from Birmingham where Jude also started his career.

He has quickly become a key player for the Championship side with 11 appearances, two goals and an assist this season.

Madrid are keen to sign the youngster now rather than risk him ending up costing £110m like his older brother.
